OUR COMMUNAL PICTURE

If we ever tried to lay out the assortment of our communal interests within the frame of a symmetrical pattern, we should find the result a very bizarre and ludicrous spectacle.

Call to mind our various activities and institutionalized tendencies. Ostensibly they are all traceable to a single communal, social or national personality. But place them in juxtaposition and see how they will match; what kind of design they will form.

A reflex of a religious ecstasy lingered in the breasts of a group of enthusiasts in one of the streets in the Jewish zone. Kindred spirits drew together and they projected a little institution; a "kleisel," a tiny temple where they indulge orgies of religious fervor after the fashion of their sect in the small Galician town. They are a group of Chassidim carrying on in Toronto in the best traditions of Libawitz or Sadagora.

Point next to them the enthusiastic young Jews who go to any lengths to promote a Jewish girls' basketball team. There is a stirring of Jewish consciousness within them. There is an idea or ideal of Jewishness in their minds. They contribute something to the economy of Jewish life—a basketball team composed of Semitic maidens.

Alongside of these there is the band of Jewish ladies, middle-aged, old-fashioned, who cling to the notion that it is incumbent upon good Jewish womanhood to provide for the sick and the suffering. And they trudge the streets of Toronto daily collecting small doles to support the Jewish Hospital or Home for the Aged. They are inspired by an ideal. They lend a bit of colour to the picture of our community.

And adjoining them there is the bevy of sweet young lasses sipping at the fountain of lore at the University. Note how close they are to one another. A common thought or a common feeling pervades them all. They are aware of a bond of Jewish sisterliness. A pretty daub of Jewish sisterhood they offer to the conspectus of our communal life.

Not far there is the small army of bewhiskered gentry whose cohesive power consists in their common occupation of salvaging junk. They are an entity and form a bit of the drab in the communal scenery.

To the right of them there is the assemblage of well-groomed gentlemen with the complacent faces whose gregarious impulse found its gratification in an exclusive club with Jewish limitations. They are in the canvas.

And there are the societies of dreamers who pray for revolutions in the Azores; and the visionaries who hope for Jewish golf courses with "erovim" (wires strung along to make the distance traversible on the Sabbath); and the trade union local of shochetim; and the ladies' auxiliary of the temple; and the fraternal lodges which pay sick-benefits to ailing relatives of Israel and Jacob; and these and the thousand others which are the dashes and strokes on the Jewish sketch. Each of them embodies a thought for Jewishness, depicts a fancy, a mood, a thrill of the Jewish spirit. They are a jumble of colours, a chaos of symbols.

THE SICK CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

By RABBI FERDINAND M. ISSERMAN

The Sick Children's Hospital is making its annual appeal for funds to maintain its work. It is an appeal that we heartily second. The Sick Children's Hospital, efficiently administered, with a splendid staff of physicians, some of whom have gained world fame, serves all creeds and all groups in the community. It has done noble work and it has helped thousands of children to win in their battles against disease. It has earned the support of every citizen in the community. Do not forget it!

ANOTHER MISSION TO THE JEWS

Local newspapers announced last week that a church organization is preparing to open in Toronto a mission to the Jew, and that it is importing a Christian Jew with special training for that purpose. We Jews are not disturbed by these missions and their implied assertion of the inferiority of Judaism. Missions have been sent against us for centuries and the Jew and Judaism have survived them. Considering the great pains that have been taken for centuries to convert the Jews, the results have been pitifully insignificant, and the student of missionary endeavours amongst Jews knows how futile they are. The only place where these missions against Jews have been successful is in the reports and statistics sent to the home church by the workers in order to stimulate the collection of funds.

Particularly in this day does such effort seem amusing. For what is happening in Christianity?—a revolt! A revolt against the non-Judaic and pagan elements. This revolt is termed modernism and if modernism succeeds it will mean that Christianity will have lost those elements which made the early Christians and Jews part company. For modernism with its rejection of the trinitarian concept and the divinity of the founder of Christianity, is casting out of Christianity those dogmas which differentiated it from Judaism. When orthodox Christianity discards its old theology, it approaches closer and closer the theology of Judaism. Unitarianism and modernism have vindicated the historic Jewish struggle throughout the centuries when they affirmed that God is One.

The group which is instituting a new Jewish mission in Toronto is one which has recently been rent in twain by theological differences. If within that group there is no unanimity about Christianity, we cannot see how doctrines about which there is dispute can be taught to others. Might it not be wise if the energies to be spent in weaning Jews away from a faith which has proved its sustaining power be utilized to establish peace between the warring elements within the missionarizing group. When peace, love and harmony, the essentials of Christianity, exist in the churches, then, perhaps, could energies be spared for extension. The experience of the Jew throughout the centuries indicates that most Christians themselves have not been converted to Christianity. Now charity does begin at home!

The King of Italy received Nahum Sokolow, president of the executive of the Zionist Organization, in private audience at San Rossore, near Pisa, October 20. Mr. Sokolow, who was accompanied by his daughter, Dr. Celina Sokolow, was welcomed by the king, and they were engaged in an hour's conversation, in the course of which the king referred to his visit to Palestine when he was the crown prince, expressed his sympathy with the aspirations of the Zionist Organization, and enquired about the conditions of the Jews in various parts of the world. Mr. Sokolow described the progress of the work already accomplished in Palestine towards the establishment of a Jewish National Home. Previous to his audience with the King of Italy, Mr. Sokolow was received in Rome by Signor Mussolini, to whom he expressed thanks for the friendly attitude of the Italian Government as manifested in the official declaration which was given to him in 1916, as well as on subsequent occasions. Signor Mussolini expressed his satisfaction with Mr. Sokolow's statement and indicated his interest in the forthcoming constitution of the Italian pro-Palestine committee under the chairmanship of Prince de Scalea, ex-Minister for the Colonies, the object of which will be the promotion of cultural, scientific and literary relations between Italy and Palestine. CHRIST-BEGETTERS, NOT CHRIST-KILLERS

We addressed our fellow Kiwanians last Thursday—"the American Thanksgiving." At the speakers' table were present Father Tom Hefferman and the Rev. Dr. Johnston. Thus rabbi, priest and minister formed a unique trinity. Here are some of the things we said:

"Thank God, that the hour has struck when Catholic, Jew and Protestant may meet in fellowship and friendship. This was not always so. A time there was when the members of different faiths looked upon each other with suspicion and ascribed to each other all sorts of diabolical names. What has kept us apart? Prejudice! What is prejudice? A pre-conceived notion about something. Now, there are many prejudices, economic and social. But we Jews have suffered from a theological prejudice. We have been called by Churchianity 'the Christ-killers.' It seems to us that Christendom ought to remember that we are 'the Christ-begetters' rather than the 'Christ-killers.' We Jews blessed the world with Jesus and the world in turn curses us. Suppose that, according to Christian theology, the Christ had to be crucified in order to save the world, and the Jew was used as the instrumentality to bring about the crucifixion—why blame the Jew? The guilt rests with God. And for the sake of argument suppose some Jews participated in that mob in Jerusalem and helped crucify Jesus—what of it? Socrates, one of the greatest of teachers, was poisoned by the Athenians. Are the descendants of the Athenians being persecuted to-day? Savanarola was burned at the stake in 1498. Are the Italians being looked down upon because of this historic crime? Certainly Christians ought ever to remember that according to the New Testament, when Jesus was dying on the cross, he said, 'Father forgive them, they know not what they do.' If Jesus forgave, how much more ought the followers of the Nazarene to forgive? As a matter of fact we Jews did not crucify Jesus.

"Of course, the Catholic harbors a prejudice against the Protestant. The Protestant is supposed to be the heretic. On the other hand the Protestant is afraid the Catholics will bring the Pope to Montreal and overthrow our democratic institutions.

"The world is experiencing a psychical revolution. A 'cosmic consciousness' is being developed. Everywhere men are beginning to see and feel a spiritual unity. Thus a Rolland in France, a Kaiserling in Germany, a Tagore in India—these are pleading for spiritual unity in the world to-day. We must recognize the principle of unity and not uniformity. Thus the Psalmist phrased it: 'How beautiful and how pleasant it is when brethren dwell together in unity.'

"Kiwanis has been a great factor in promoting the ideal of unity. In this organization we have all races and creeds uniting to build a new humanity. Kiwanis may institute a 'Better Understanding Day' upon which occasion members of different creeds may come face to face and get to know something about each other. With the help of the material revolution and the social revolution, the psychical revolution will result in a better humanity."

A JEWISH FELLOWSHIP MEETING IN TORONTO

We were guest-speaker last Monday at a Jewish Fellowship meeting in Toronto. Representatives of Holy Blossom Temple and of the University Avenue Synagogue met and broke bread together. Then the spiritual heads outlined the many things in which liberal and orthodox Jews can co-operate in the cause of a greater Judaism. We do congratulate Toronto Jewry for such a splendid gesture of Jewish fellowship. We rejoice that the time has come at last when even in Canada the Temple Jew is no longer called "the goy" and the orthodox is no longer stigmatized as "the benighted Yid." Many a community may follow the example of Toronto Jewry. Let us do away with Jewish anti-Semitism. All Israel constitutes one Brotherhood.

First Baptist Mission to the Jews in Toronto and presumably the first Baptist Mission to the Jews in Canada is being established by Grace Baptist Church, Rev. George W. Allen announced at the afternoon session of the Women's Missionary Society of the Regular Baptists of Canada in Jarvis Street Church yesterday. Mr. Allen besought the prayers and support of the Regular Baptist churches in connection with the new enterprise.

Fred Kandle,* a Christian Jew, now at Tillsonburg and a recent graduate of Moody Bible Institute, had been secured to take charge of the work at the first of December.

"As soon as we get a-going we hope to operate a mission hall on Spadina Avenue, somewhere around the Jewish theatres," Mr. Allen stated. Effort will be along evangelistic lines. Work done previously among the Jews by Baptists has been in co-operation with other denominations.

* * *

The Chicago Hebrew Mission is a cozy, warm place where a poor Jew, blue with cold, may stop in on wild days when the wind roars over the lake. The worse the day the bigger the audience, so the time to convert a listener is winter. Smart Jewish boys live double lives here and, pretending to be converts, speak eloquently in Yiddish and English of the beauties of being Christian, not Jewish. They also act as ushers and sometimes as bouncers and they distribute all the pamphlets you want in various languages carrying what is known as a message. A recently published pamphlet relates the soul-stirring romance of a Jewish girl and how she managed to live happily ever after even when her Christian lover proved false and she left him. It tells about how the heroine walked up and down in front of the ocean, despondent over her loss, not wanting to live and determined to end it all that very night. But as she was climbing the stairway to her hotel her heavy sighs were overheard by a young woman going down the stairs and the following conversation ensued:

"Excuse me: You sighed deeply. Are you in trouble?"

The Jewess replied: "Well, yes. I was thinking that life was not worth living."

She did not say that she intended to end it, but merely that it was not worth living.

"Indeed," said the young woman. "I think life is worth living."

The Jewess turned with a little bow, a look of unbelief on her face, and said "Your secret, pray!"

The young woman replied: "My secret is that I have a friend who comforts me in all my sorrows, and delivers me out of all my troubles. He is my companion through life."

"Will you introduce me to your friend?"

"With pleasure! I shall do so by means of a book. Will you read it?"

"Yes, anything that will tell me of your friend who can heal one's sorrows."

"Then wait a minute, while I fetch it."

The young woman brought a New Testament, and said:

"This is the book."

"What is it? A New Testament! I have never seen it before."

"Will you read it?"

"Most assuredly."

Space, as the real writers say, forbids giving the entire dramatic tale, but the Jewess, being a good little girl, reads the New Testament and is henceforth a Christian. Isn't this a nice story? It isn't a burlesque, either, and it was written by some salaried worker in the fight against the heathen and Egyptian darkness. Evidently it is considered persuasive stuff but almost any Jewish child of school age would call it tame and the adults who are swept into the mission or go in for a grim laugh don't believe in Santy Claus either. So about the only people persuaded of anything are the sanctimonious contributors who provide cushy jobs for mission workers. Will they ever realize it?

Within the scope of personal service, the Family Welfare Bureau of Federation deals with a variety of cases. Some are problems of health where no actual relief is wanted but arrangements for admission to clinics, hospital and sanitaria are secured. In other instances the Bureau is responsible for finding suitable boarding homes for children while the mother is confined in a hospital during an operation or temporary illness. Domestic relations cases in their various aspects also form a considerable proportion of the Bureau's activities. Differences between husband and wife, children and parents are often adjusted in the offices of the Bureau, and if no agreement is reached and court action follows, a representative of the Bureau appears at the Morality Court on behalf of the complainant. During the last month six new domestic relation cases were brought to the attention of the Bureau, only two of which came up before the Morality Court. The Bureau is still receiving requests for winter clothes and donations of articles in fairly good condition are solicited. MAIL BOX

Editor,
CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW,—

In the REVIEW's issue of November the 16th last, under the heading, "Bnai Zion Hears Rabbi," a report was given, with reference to the general meeting held by the Bnai Zion on the evening of November the 20th last. In this report was inserted that the secretary read from the minutes of the executive committee meeting that that committee had endorsed the candidature of D. Goldstick for alderman in Ward 5.

I beg to inform you, in the interest of the truth, that this insertion was erroneous. The executive committee of the Bnai Zion Association has never endorsed the candidature of Mr. Goldstick, consequently, it could not have been entered and read from the minutes as reported.

Thanking you in advance for your kindness, I remain, respectfully yours.

H. LAZARESCO,
Secretary.

LOEW'S

Next Monday afternoon Loew's Theatre will present the most sensational melodramatic photoplay of the season, "The City Gone Wild," a thrilling crook drama in which the gangster world is seen in its true colours. This is a powerful picture and a great theme. Thomas Meighan is the star of the offering and he is supported by a galaxy of pretty leading women—no less than three being given roles opposite to Tommy—and the caste also includes such sterling actors as Wyndham Harding, Fred Kohler and "Gunboat" Smith. Louise Brooks is the snappy young thing who is queen of the underworld. Marietta Millner is the stunning creature whom Tommy, as the lawyer, rescues from the crime ranks. Nancy Phillips is the cafe cutie. Balancing this great screen attraction is a vaudeville programme featuring the musical comedy star, Paul Burns, and Walter Kane, Broadway's favorite juvenile in "Broadcasting," and four other big acts are also offered.

CHRISTIANS PROTECT JEWISH GIRLS FROM BUDAPEST STUDENTS' ATTACK

Attacks on Jewish students in the university and technical schools were renewed November 28. Mobs of Nationalist students attempted to break up classes including Jews. Jewish girl students in the philosophical faculty of the university who refused to leave were told, "Better go home before we do something worse to you." The girls stood their ground and Christian girls forced the Nationalists to leave the hall.

The attacking party formed outside. Many Christian youths and girls answered the call of members of the faculty and formed a guard around the Jewish students. After a fight the Nationalists were routed.

As a result of this and a dozen other incidents, the authorities have decided to close the universities three weeks earlier than usual for the Christmas holidays, during which, it is hoped, the law will be modified to a degree which will prevent Nationalist students from renewing their attacks.

Professors are threatened with loss of places if they continue to protect Jewish students, but have agreed not to yield to the mob and have asked the Government to provide police protection.

The universities have been handicapped by an ancient privilege which puts the regulation of student affairs in the students' hands. The police are not permitted within the university boundaries. The police are massed around the student buildings here ready for further demonstrations.

Dr. Ascher Hananel, of France, who was recently awarded a Doctorate of Theology, has been appointed Chief Rabbi of Sofia.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, minerals, water, power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a neat attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.
